HISTORY OF THE TRACK AND FIELD FACILITY

Texas A&M’s Rhonda and Frosty Gilliam ’80 Indoor Track Stadium will serve as host of the SEC Indoor and NCAA Division I Indoor Track and Field Championships. This season will mark the second time in the history of the facility it has hosted both a conference and national championship meet in the same season.

The Aggies hosted the NCAA Division I Indoor Track and Field Championships in 2009, 2011 and 2017. A total of 28 Gilliam Indoor facility records have been established during the national championship meets hosted by Texas A&M, 13 on the men’s side and 15 women’s marks. A total of 16 facility records were broken in 2017, nine by the women and seven by the men.

Of the 14 collegiate records established at Gilliam Indoor, eight were attained during the three NCAA championships hosted by Texas A&M. Three of those collegiate records were set last March.

Gilliam Indoor opened its doors for the first time in 2009. In addition to hosting five national championships within its first 10 years of service, the world-class facility will host four conference meetings within in that time frame (2009, 2012 Big 12; 2014, 2018 SEC).

The top-of-the-line facility is fully air-conditioned and equipped with high-quality climate control systems. It features a number of technological advancements and is constructed with Poly Vinyl Chloride (PVC) fabric, tensioned over a 104’ 2 7/8” steel frame. It is fully insulated with thick R-30 insulation for the severe Texas heat and cold winters, and lined with a similar PVC fabric. Together, the indoor football practice facility and Gilliam Indoor Track Stadium are known as the McFerrin Athletic Center, named for Arthur “Artie” McFerrin, class of 1965.

The track in the indoor facility is created with the same surfacing that was used for the track & field events at the 2008 Summer Olympics. The surface is constructed with Mondo Super X Performance Material, a synthetic rubber that provides high-quality shock absorption, skid resistance, force reduction, and overall comfort for the athletes. The six-lane, 200-meter competition track installed in the facility also has the capability to be hydraulically banked at its two bends for high speed running events. This technology has made the Texas A&M facility one of the fastest indoor tracks in North America. The hydraulic track can be adjusted to any interval, perfect for a variety of training purposes and levels of competition.

Aside from the six-lane, 200-meter hydraulically banked competition track, the facility features eight independent sprint lanes, two long and triple jump sand pits, four pole vault runways, and two throwing rings.

Gilliam Indoor Track Stadium features a pre-engineered bleacher system with press boxes and portable grandstands to seat over 4,100. It is also furnished with two press boxes, fully operating concessions, and restroom facilities for meets and other events.
