Vision Statement

Division III will be a dynamic and engaging group of colleges, universities and conferences of varying sizes and missions committed to an environment that encourages and supports diversity, values fairness and equity, and places the highest priority on the overall educational experience of the student-athletes in the conduct of intercollegiate athletics.

2nd Edition — Released September 2009
By NCAA President Myles Brand

This second edition of the Division III Annual Report begins, appropriately, with the division’s philosophy statement. The statement reflects the Division III membership’s commitment to collaboratively provide high-quality competitive opportunities for student-athletes, while taking special care to ensure these activities are embedded within the educational purposes of our universities and colleges.

It also ultimately binds the division’s diverse and growing membership, as the Division III Presidents Council points out in one of the “white papers” it authored last year to challenge the membership to clearly identify the attributes that make Division III distinctive in higher education and college sports.

This year, the Presidents Council is leading an effort to pull together the various pieces of Division III’s “story” in an identity campaign. Though the details of that initiative are still in development, it is safe to assume that many of the key elements of the story Division III ultimately will tell can be found within the pages of this report.

This annual report depicts a division that commits its resources not only to supporting the athlete, but shaping the student who embraces the educational opportunities provided by approximately 450 institutions.

The report details how the division targets specific philosophically grounded objectives through its Strategic Initiatives Grant Program, such as by funding programs that support sportsmanship. It demonstrates Division III’s advocacy for the health and safety of student-athletes, listing the many resources the division provides in pursuit of that objective. It also outlines Division III’s equally important commitment to achieving greater diversity among our institutions’ athletics administrators and coaches and its student-athletes.

It describes the crucial role our member conferences play in devising and sharing ideas for empowering regional and campus student-athlete advisory committees to provide leadership, equipping administrators and coaches to achieve full compliance with membership obligations, and encouraging athletics programs to reach out in a spirit of service and engagement to local communities.
As I wrote last year, both achievement and potential are on display in this document, which helps tell the story of a unique approach to intercollegiate athletics.

I also suggested that the division’s membership has the opportunity to write the definitive answer to an important question: What is Division III? As the 2009-10 academic year begins, the Presidents Council formally has made answering that question one of its top priorities. The effort to define and promote the Division III identity – to tell its story – is now well underway, and details on how Division III will proceed with that initiative are expected to be provided at the 2010 Convention.

In pursuit of another priority, the Presidents Council also is leading a discussion about how to establish a greater strategic role for presidents in Division III governance. That effort promises to further sharpen the philosophy statement, through a Convention proposal to explicitly proclaim the division’s expectations of presidential leadership and involvement at the campus, conference and national levels.

Other priorities specifically support existing philosophical tenets, for example by ensuring meaningful goals and objectives are in place for the programs referenced within this report that seek improved diversity and gender equity. Meanwhile, student-athlete well-being also will be a priority, through evaluation of data from Division III’s two-year drug education and testing pilot program.

Division III also will be looking ahead at new ways to honor its philosophy while honing its story, by conducting an academic-reporting pilot program to test the value of comparing graduation rates of student-athletes at an institution with the broader student body.

Pursuit of these priorities may yield even richer answers to the question of Division III’s identity.
Meanwhile, this year’s Division III Annual Report details myriad ways in which the division breathes life into its philosophy statement.

It is, perhaps, this quest to live its distinctive philosophy that really tells Division III’s story.

NCAA Division III Annual Report 5
Philosophy Statement

Colleges and universities in Division III place highest priority on the overall quality of the educational experience and on the successful completion of all students' academic programs. They seek to establish and maintain an environment in which a student-athlete's athletics activities are conducted as an integral part of the student-athlete's educational experience, and in which coaches play a significant role as educators. They also seek to establish and maintain an environment that values cultural diversity and gender equity among their student-athletes and athletics staff. To achieve this end, Division III institutions:

(a) Place special importance on the impact of athletics on the participants rather than on the spectators and place greater emphasis on the internal constituency (e.g., students, alumni, institutional personnel) than on the general public and its entertainment needs;

(b) Shall not award financial aid to any student on the basis of athletics leadership, ability, participation or performance;

(c) Encourage the development of sportsmanship and positive societal attitudes in all constituents, including student-athletes, coaches, administrative personnel and spectators;

(d) Encourage participation by maximizing the number and variety of athletics opportunities for their students;

(e) Assure that the actions of coaches and administrators exhibit fairness, openness and honesty in their relationships with student-athletes;

(f) Assure that athletics participants are not treated differently from other members of the student body;

(g) Assure that athletics programs support the institution's educational mission by financing, staffing and controlling the programs through the same general procedures as other departments of the institution. Further, the administration of an institution's athletics program (e.g., hiring, compensation, professional development, certification of coaches) should be integrated into the campus culture and educational mission;

(h) Assure that athletics recruitment complies with established institutional policies and procedures applicable to the admission process;

(i) Assure that academic performance of student-athletes is, at a minimum, consistent with that of the general student body;

(j) Assure that admission policies for student-athletes comply with policies and procedures applicable to the general student body;

(k) Provide equitable athletics opportunities for males and females and give equal emphasis to men's and women's sports;

(l) Support ethnic and gender diversity for all constituents;

(m) Give primary emphasis to regional in-season competition and conference championships; and

(n) Support student-athletes in their efforts to reach high levels of athletics performance, which may include opportunities for participation in national championships, by providing all teams with adequate facilities, competent coaching and appropriate competitive opportunities.

The purpose of the NCAA is to assist its members in developing the basis for consistent, equitable competition while minimizing infringement on the freedom of individual institutions to determine their own special objectives and programs. The above statement articulates principles that represent a commitment to Division III membership and shall serve as a guide for the preparation of legislation by the division and for planning and implementation of programs by institutions and conferences.

Distribution of Division III institutions
NCAA Division III Strategic Initiatives Program

2008-09 marked the ninth year of the Division III Initiatives program developed by the Division III Initiatives Task Force and extended by the Division III Management Council and Presidents Council. The work of the Initiatives Task Force coincided with the Executive Committee’s charge for each division to develop and submit by January 2001 a plan to allocate the new resources created by the Association’s rights fee agreement that took effect in 2002-03. All initiatives are currently monitored by the Division III Strategic Planning and Finance Committee and focus on the key priorities identified in the Division III Strategic Plan: student-athlete well being, diversity and gender equity, sportsmanship, and membership education and communication.

Subsequent to the work of the Division III Initiatives Task Force, the Division III Presidents Council formally established a funding priority for the Division that maintains a minimum of 25% of the Division III budget to support the strategic initiatives program. In addition, some programs receive association-wide funding. Significant elements of the strategic initiatives program are listed below and summarized in the following section of this report.

Student-Athlete Leadership Conference

Ethnic Minority and Women’s Internship Grant

Strategic Initiatives Conference Grant Program

Strategic Alliance Matching Grant

Conduct Foul Program

National Association of Division III Athletics Administrators Partnership

Senior Woman Administrator Enhancement Grant
(Partnership with the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletics Administrators)
Student-Athlete Leadership Conference

Mission

The mission of the NCAA Division III Student-Athlete Leadership Conference is to prepare student-athletes for leadership in a diverse and dynamic society. Student-athletes, coaches and athletics administrators work together to facilitate critical dialogue, address Division III-specific issues and create the partnerships needed to impact positive change at the campus, conference and divisional level. This is a three-day, weekend conference and is provided at no cost to all institutions that are eligible to attend.

What is the NCAA Division III Student-Athlete Leadership Conference?

Division III is committed to student-athlete well-being, a key priority of the Division III Strategic Plan. The divisional leadership conferences are designed to encourage student-athletes to become confident change agents on their campuses and in their communities and to provide a forum for student-athletes, coaches, administrators and faculty to build partnerships, develop leadership skills, and discuss Division III issues that impact student-athletes. As part of the divisional leadership conferences, participants from the same institution or conference office will work together in teams. They will use information presented at the leadership conference to develop plans for projects that can be implemented with the support of the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and other campus leaders to promote positive change. This jam-packed, weekend conference allows Division III attendees to not only become change agents, but have fun and make new friends while doing it!

How will this conference benefit my campus or conference?

The Division III Student-Athlete Leadership Conference was developed to provide all Division III student-athletes, coaches and administrators the opportunity to:

- Assess individual leadership skills through self assessment and peer feedback.
- Gain a better understanding of key practices of exemplary leaders.
- Meet with others from your conference to begin dialogue about the current state of your campus or conference.
- Learn about the role of the SAAC as a student-athlete resource.
- Discuss Division III issues effecting student-athlete well being.
- Begin developing an action plan to create positive change on your campus, for your conference or within the community.

Not only will your team enhance their leadership skills and develop a plan to positively affect your campus; but they also will participate in numerous educational sessions which will impact the development and growth of the student-athlete experience at your campus or within your conference. Participants will attend sessions that further their understanding of the NCAA, Division III, Student-Athlete Advisory Committees and other critical Division III issues. When they return to their campus, they will use this knowledge to implement their project. The NCAA will follow up with an assessment to monitor the positive changes implemented during that year.

Background and Purpose
In a study initiated by the NCAA Minority Opportunities and Interests Committee on the race demographics of the NCAA membership's athletics personnel, findings indicated that Division III has the lowest percentage of ethnic minority and female coaches and administrators among the three divisions of the NCAA (there has been a slight increase since the baseline of year 1995). In response to the study, the NCAA Division III Presidents and Management Councils decided to address the challenge directly.

The Division III Initiatives Task Force's vision for this program is now overseen by the NCAA Division III Strategic Planning and Finance Committee. The Ethnic Minority and Women's Internship Grant Program is an important initiative that supports Division III's stated mission of its institutions and conferences supporting ethnic and gender diversity for all constituents.

The goal of this grant is to prepare individuals for full-time employment in a leadership role in athletics administration, upon completion of this program.

About the Grant
Division III funds two-year Ethnic Minority and Women's Internship Grants. These $23,100 grants are designated for Division III institutions and conference offices to hire a 10-month full-time individual, give that person the opportunity to learn and contribute in administration/coaching. It is the responsibility of the institution or conference office to provide administrative supervision and mentorship as a requirement of participation.

The selected individual should be included as part of the athletics department leadership team in order to gain a working knowledge of the department. Funding will cover the intern's salary ($20,100) and $3,000 to cover the cost of the intern attending professional development activities [e.g., NCAA Convention, Regional Rules Seminar, conference meetings or NACWAA/HERS Institute for Administrative Advancement]. The institution or conference office will be responsible for providing an additional in-kind contribution of at least $3,700 per year. These funds should be applied towards the intern's personal living expenses [e.g., health coverage, housing, meals, additional stipends].

Qualified Areas for Interns to Work
Selected institutions and conference offices will be responsible for advertising the position, hiring and selecting their own intern, not later than July 1. Interns are eligible to work in any active Division III institution or voting conference of the NCAA. The duties of the intern must include a substantial percentage of administrative responsibilities; i.e., involved in internal and external relations with senior staff members, exposure to contracts, search and screening processes and coach evaluations. The scope of work to be done should be realistic. Positions in sports information and community relations must be linked with other administrative responsibilities besides coaching. Positions should not be written for interns to serve as a head coach of any sport.

The following is a sample list of available opportunities; it is not all-inclusive.

- Academic Support Services/Student-Athlete Support. (Should include more responsibilities than study table and identifying tutors.)
- Assistant Director of Athletics/ Athletics Department Administration. (May include operations, facilities, compliance, event management, budget, fundraising, scheduling and personnel/human resources.)
- Assistant Director of Sports Information/Community Relations Coordinator. (Must allow for interaction with other staff members; minimize Web design, media publications and data entry responsibilities.)

- Marketing, Promotions and Special Events/Championship Administrator. (May include game-day promotions, event management, internal or external operations.)

- Assistant Coach of Any Sport. (Must be linked to another administrative responsibility. For sport positions it is recommended that the sport not be specifically mentioned to broaden the pool of prospective applicants.)

- Assistant Commissioner. (May have sports information responsibilities.)

- Strength and Conditioning. (May include evaluation and training of employees, payroll, design of strength and conditioning programs, student-athlete well-being, health and safety, and nutrition programming.

Overview
The NCAA Division III Strategic Initiatives Conference Grant Program was formally approved by the Presidents and Management Councils during their October 2005 meetings. The program was also endorsed by the Division III Strategic-Planning Subcommittee and Division III Commissioners Association. Beginning in 2006-07, all NCAA Division III voting conferences and the Association of Division III Independents received an annual grant allowance. The allocation is reviewed annually as one part of the ongoing Division III Strategic Initiatives program.

The Strategic Initiatives grant program is intended to encourage collaboration and involvement of all Division III constituent group representatives in the planning, decision-making and accountability of programming to achieve the goals established in the division’s strategic plan. The program offers Division III conference members and the Association of Independents the opportunity to determine at the local level how to achieve the clearly defined annual and cyclical broad areas of focus. Presidential oversight and accountability with the process and budget allocations, consistent with the legislated leadership role of presidents within conference governance, is paramount.

The program consists of annual grants that target three strategic goals, or “Tiers”:

Tier One – Professional Development, Education and Communication
Annual Mandatory Funding Categories
- Student-Athlete Advisory Committee.
- Compliance and Rules Seminar Education.
- Faculty Athletic Representative Enhancement.
- SWA Enhancement.
- Sports Information Director Workshop (Bi-Annual).
- Academic/Chief Student Affairs Officer Education – NCAA Convention.
- Commissioners Meetings.

Tier Two – Social Responsibility and Integration
Four-Year Rotation Cycle
- Student-Athlete Well Being/Community Service Initiatives.
- Diversity and Gender-Equity Initiatives.
- Sportsmanship Initiatives.

Tier Three – Quality of the Participation Experience
Strategic Enhancements
(These are examples ONLY)
- Technology.
- Officiating Improvement.
- Promotions and Marketing/Division III Identity.
- Championships Enhancements.
- Professional Development.

TOTAL 2008-09 ALLOCATION:
- $34,000 - $61,000 per conference

* Amounts are based on the total number of institutions.
The Strategic Alliance Matching Grant provides funding for Division III institutions and conference offices to enhance gender and ethnic diversity through full-time professional administrative/coaching positions in athletics administration.

Positions that include coaching responsibilities must include significant administrative responsibilities (i.e., hiring, budget, policy development and supervision of staff).

Positions requesting funding should be a part of the core decision-making process and have an active role on the leadership team.

Each Division III institution and conference office selected to receive a matching grant will be funded for three years, with diminishing contributions by the NCAA. The NCAA will fund 75 percent of the position during the first year, 50 percent the second year and 25 percent during the third year. Second- and third-year funding of the grant is contingent upon the submission of a year-end status report from grant recipient and his/her institution and conference office supervisor, verifying the position and how the funds were used. All applicant institutions and conference offices must show a commitment to continuing the position beyond the three-year NCAA grant.

Matching Diversity Grants Already Making a Difference

The Division III Strategic Alliance Matching Grant has been around just shy of a decade, but administrators already are convinced that its impact will influence the division for years to come.

The program provides funding for Division III institutions and conferences to enhance gender and ethnic diversity through the establishment of full-time athletics administration and coaching positions. Patterned after a similar outreach in Division II, it was implemented in 2001 and is one of the largest maintained under the Division III Strategic Initiatives Program, which is designed to address key nonchampionships-related priorities within the Division III strategic plan.

Grants are funded for three years with diminishing contributions by the NCAA each year – 75 percent in the first year, 50 percent in the second and 25 percent in the third. Recipients must demonstrate during the application process a commitment to maintain the position after the grant is exhausted. An average of 35 Division III members apply for the funds annually, and about six to nine are selected.

While no data exist to quantify the program’s success, Division III Vice President Dan Dutcher said its value could be revealed during a review of Association-wide diversity and gender programming.

“I expect the evaluation is going to show that folks who have received this funding have had a good experience,” Dutcher said. “We hope they are still in intercollegiate athletics, and we hope they are still in Division III. That was the goal of the program, but we need that feedback to figure out if we’ve achieved that goal.”

There already is strong anecdotal evidence that the program is appreciated at an institutional level.

Eligible schools and leagues propose new positions or enhance current ones as part of their applications, which allows recipients some flexibility in using the money to help fill critical needs within the athletics department or conference office. At Fontbonne, for example, that translated into being able to address a long-standing need for an assistant athletics director.

“I’ve been here for 22 years, and for at least 10, we wanted to hire an assistant athletics director and we didn’t have the finances at the time,” said Lee McKinney, the school’s athletics director, who likened the grant to a gift.

Not only has the individual McKinney hired remained, she currently has oversight of Fontbonne’s entire women’s athletics department. She also has taken on additional responsibilities as compliance director, and she maintains other duties on campus, integrating with other university committees, faculty and staff.

McKinney said the award’s three-year cycle gave the institution time to fold the salary into the athletics budget. “Without that in the beginning, I don’t know if we could have done it. You always find a way, I guess, but it made it a lot easier for us,” he said.

Dea Shipps, associate commissioner for internal affairs and senior woman administrator at the Eastern College Athletic Conference, said the grant program’s potential to influence the gender and ethnic diversity of the division’s leadership was the impetus behind the ECAC’s decision to apply. One of six grant recipients in 2009, the ECAC plans to use the funds to establish a director of Division III governance and officiating.

Shipps said while there is a need for more women and people of color in leadership roles within Division III, the same need exists in officiating, as well, prompting the conference to establish a new position that focused on both areas. The selected candidate will not only benefit from the experience and knowledge of veteran ECAC staffers, but also will become familiar with the division and its governance structure through mentoring opportunities with selected Division III athletics directors, she said.

Looking ahead, Shipps believes the matching grant will pay significant dividends for the division, and ultimately the entire Association.

“With this particular position, we plan to bring them in for three years and create a position for them after the grant period has ended,” she said. “Should they decide to leave the ECAC, they will have obtained all the experience they need to walk into a senior leadership position at a conference or institution. That’s the goal.

“It’s obvious there’s a critical need to increase the number of women and people of color in the Division III leadership, and knowing there is money available is a positive thing.”

2008-09 Postgraduate Scholarship Recipients

The NCAA awards up to 174 postgraduate scholarships annually, 87 for men and 87 for women. Each sports season (fall, winter and spring), there are 29 scholarships available for men and 29 scholarships available for women. The one-time, non-renewable grants of $7,500 are awarded to student-athletes who excel academically and athletically and who are in their final year of intercollegiate athletics competition.

MISSION STATEMENT

The NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship was created in 1964 to promote and encourage postgraduate education by rewarding the Association's most accomplished student-athletes through their participation in NCAA championship and/or emerging sports. Athletics and academic achievements, as well as campus involvement, community service, volunteer activities and demonstrated leadership, are evaluated. An equitable approach is employed in reviewing each applicant's nomination form to provide opportunity to all student-athlete nominees to receive the postgraduate award, regardless of sport, division, gender or race. In maintaining the highest broad-based standards in the selection process, the program aims to reward those individuals whose dedication and effort are reflective of those characteristics necessary to succeed and thrive through postgraduate study in an accredited graduate degree program.

Drug Education and Testing Pilot

In August 2006, the Division III Presidents Council voted to establish a pilot drug education and testing program during the 2007-08 and 2008-09 academic years. This significant initiative will help the division evaluate the long-term role that education and testing might play to ensure a safer and more equitable environment for our student-athletes.

Pilot Purpose
- To enhance student-athlete well-being and competitive equity.
- To provide information about and experience with NCAA drug education and testing on campus.
- To assess the impact of education and testing on drug use.
- To enhance drug-use deterrence strategies.

Testing Model
- 16-20 student-athletes per institution were tested. These individuals were randomly selected from one to three teams.
- Student-athletes were tested for performance-enhancing and street drugs.
- A campus level, aggregate report was provided to each participating institution. There were no sanctions for student-athletes and no individual results were reported.
- There will be a division-wide aggregate report by sport.

Participants
- The pilot includes a representative sample of 116 Division III institutions. All sports are included in the testing sample.

Evaluation
- Written surveys (pre-tests) were conducted to establish a baseline prior to the drug education and testing programs being implemented.
- A sample of sports was surveyed at each of the pilot schools. No more than 100 student-athletes were surveyed at each school.
- A post-test was conducted to measure the effect of and attitudes towards the drug-education and testing programs included in the pilot.
- Results of year one were released in the fall of 2008, and a final pilot report is scheduled to be released in the fall of 2009.
- A full report of pilot results will be presented at the 2010 Convention.
NCAA Health and Safety Programs

NCAA Catastrophic Injury Insurance Program

The NCAA sponsors a Catastrophic Injury Insurance Program which covers the student-athlete who is catastrophically injured while participating in a covered intercollegiate athletic activity. The policy has a $75,000 deductible and provides benefits in excess of any other valid and collectible insurance.

NCAA Exceptional Student-Athlete Disability Insurance.

The NCAA also sponsors a disability insurance program for exceptional student-athletes at NCAA institutions in the sports of football, men's and women's basketball, baseball and men's ice hockey. The program enables qualifying student-athletes, as approved by the program administrator, to purchase disability insurance contracts with preapproved financing, if necessary. This program will provide the student-athlete with the opportunity to protect against future loss of earnings as a professional athlete, due to a disabling injury or sickness that may occur during the collegiate career.

NCAA Group Basic Medical Program

The NCAA sponsors a group basic accident medical program that covers intercollegiate sports related injuries to protect the student-athlete and institution below the catastrophic insurance deductible of 75,000 per injury. The primary goal of the program is to provide member institutions tools and resources necessary to control costs and reduce expenses related to athletic injuries including a reasonable insurance solution, risk management strategies, cost containment solutions, and administrative service.

NCAA Drug Testing at Division III Championships

The NCAA conducts drug testing for NCAA banned substances at Division III Championships; the schedule of events to be tested is approved in an annual championship testing plan. All student-athletes participating in Division III championships are subject to drug testing. Student-athletes who test positive during NCAA championship drug testing are subject to loss of eligibility.

NCAA Division III Drug Education and Testing 2007-2009 Pilot Program

Division III has just completed a two-year pilot to assess the role that drug education and drug testing might play to ensure a safer and more equitable environment for our student-athletes. Analysis and reporting of the pilot data will occur through the fall 2009 and winter 2010.

NCAA Health and Safety Speakers Grant.

The purpose of this grant program is to provide institutions and conferences with funding to bring in speakers who cover one or more of the approved health and safety topics, while also fostering relationships between athletics staff and other campus entities assuring that all constituents are working towards the common goal to promote student-athlete well-being. Any active NCAA member institution or conference is eligible to apply for a $500 grant to help fund speaker fees for athletics department drug-education and wellness programs. The event for which funding is requested must be part of a drug-education or wellness program targeted to student-athletes and/or athletics personnel; other students/groups are encouraged to participate. Approved topics are: alcohol, tobacco and other drugs/addictions; nutrition; stress management/mental health; sexual health including GBLT issues; and hazing.

APPLE Conference

The NCAA annually sponsors two APPLE Conferences – to Promote Student-Athlete Well-Being and Substance Abuse Prevention, conducted by the University of Virginia’s Center for Alcohol and Substance Education (CASE). The goals of the conferences are to enable the “prevention team” of student-athletes, athletics administrators, coaches, athletic trainers and alcohol and other drug abuse prevention personnel to analyze the current substance-abuse prevention efforts in their own athletics department, and to create an action plan for improving those efforts based upon the APPLE model. CASE provides ongoing assessment and follow-up on each institution subsequent to the conference. The NCAA grant pays for meals, lodging and conference materials; institutions attending an APPLE Conference are responsible for travel to and from and a $250 team registration fee.

NCAA CHOICES Grant

Through a competitive application process, the CHOICES program provides funding (up to $30,000 over three years) to NCAA member institutions and conferences to integrate athletics into campus-wide efforts to reduce alcohol abuse. CHOICES projects must partner athletics with other campus departments in the development and implementation of effective alcohol-education projects. Collaboration between the athletics department and other campus organizations involved in alcohol-education is a vital element of a CHOICES project.

NCAA Injury Surveillance Program

The NCAA injury surveillance program was developed in 1982 to collect accurate and reliable data on injury incidence in NCAA Championships Sports, and analyze, interpret, and disseminate these data to assist evidence-based decision-making. Injury and exposure data are collected yearly from a sample of NCAA member institutions and the resulting data summaries are reviewed by the NCAA Sport Rules Committees and by the NCAA Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports. The program continues to focus on minimizing the risk of injury through suggested changes in rules, protective equipment or coaching techniques based on data.

NCAA Cheerleading Safety Initiative

The NCAA partnered with Varsity Brands, the parent company of the largest national cheer organizations, to undertake an important cheerleading risk management initiative with a goal of enhancing safety for college cheerleaders. As a first step in this initiative, effective August 1, 2006, the NCAA’s Catastrophic Injury Insurance Program included a new requirement in order for an institution’s cheerleading program to be included as a covered event under the policy. The new requirement states that cheerleading activities must be supervised by a safety-certified coach or advisor. While there are choices among certifying organizations, the NCAA has partnered with, and recommends the American Association of Cheerleading Coaches and Administrators (AACCA). AACCA offers certification courses year-round at sites across the country. Once completed, the safety certification remains in effect for four years.

NCAA Best Practices Handbooks and Resources

The NCAA provides handbooks and resources for its membership to develop policy and practices that help student-athletes make the proper choices for healthy lifestyles.

- Sports Medicine Handbook
- Managing Student Athletes’ Mental Health Issues Handbook
- Life and Work Balance Handbook, Facilitator Video and online resource
- Female Athlete Triad Prevention Handbook

The Division III Financial Aid Reporting Program Review Results: 2005-06 through 2008-09

Introduction
This report summarizes the four-year history of the financial aid review process of the Division III Financial Aid Reporting Program. The financial aid review process involves two stages of systematic assessment: 1) Level I, an assessment of each school’s quantitative report based on submitted data, and 2) Level II, an assessment of the report as well as narrative and quantitative information provided by the school to justify any perceived inequities in financial aid packaging that appear to benefit student-athletes. This report examines the review criteria and outcomes for each review level, as well as a description of the violations found and the sanctions levied.

Level I Review
The review criteria described in the first three items below are based on the determination of statistical outliers. These criteria have fluctuated slightly from year to year. The other criteria, items four through six, have remained constant. In the 2008-09 Level I Review, the Division III Financial Aid Committee reviewed schools that met at least one of the following criteria:

- Difference in the proportion of financial need met by institutional gift aid between student-athletes and other students that exceeded 19.4 percent, considered a statistical outlier for this reporting cycle.
- Proportionality test outcome that exceeded 8.6 percent, considered a statistical outlier for this reporting cycle.
- Three or more student-athlete statistical outlier cases in a single sport, or

- Six institutions successfully appealed the Financial Aid Committee findings of a violation.
- The Financial Aid Reporting Program has uncovered financial aid violations at 39 schools, approximately nine percent of the division’s membership. These schools do not fit a single profile. They range in enrollment, athletics department size, cost and financial resources, among other criteria.
sports, were identified for three consecutive years.

- Variance estimate above four percent.
- No action was taken on the institution in the 2007-08 reporting process with conditions to be reviewed at Level I in 2008-09.
- Institution was referred to NCAA enforcement services during the 2007-08 review process with automatic review at Level I Review in 2008-09.

Three possible Level I Review outcomes that result from a formal committee vote: 1) no action; 2) no action with conditions, or 3) forward to Level II review and request a written justification.

The committee has completed a Level I review of 137 unduplicated institutions, or approximately 31 percent of the Division III membership over the four years of the program.

Level II Review

Across the four years of the program, 104 unduplicated cases (approximately 24 percent of the Division III membership) have been forwarded to the Level II Review.

From the Level II Review process, the committee has referred 44 institutions to NCAA enforcement services for processing of identifying violations.

Three institutions have been referred to NCAA enforcement services on two occasions bringing the number of enforcement referrals to 47.

Sanctions

Sanctions for violations discovered through the reporting program are determined by NCAA enforcement services and the Division III Committee on Infractions.

Sanctions for secondary violations have been educative in nature.

Sanctions associated with a major violation are under the auspices of NCAA enforcement services and the Committee on Infractions and may include a probationary period, public reprimand, and a post-season ban, among others.

- A secondary violation can best be described as isolated or inadvertent.
- A major violation is defined as anything that cannot be categorized as secondary.
- At the time of this report, the seven cases from 2008-09 are being processed by NCAA enforcement services and three cases from 2007-08 are being processed by the Division III Committee on Infractions.
- Two of the three pending major violation cases from 2007-08 reporting cycle were the result of an unjustified proportionality difference violation discovered by the committee through the sport filter discussed earlier in the report.

Gender Equity in College Coaching and Administration – Perceived Barriers: An Overview of NCAA Division III Findings

Gender Equity in College Coaching and Administration – Perceived Barriers (Barriers 2007-08), was the second study conducted by the NCAA to measure career aspirations and perceptions of careers in intercollegiate athletics among females. The study provided NCAA policymakers, conference offices and member institutions with detailed information on the perceptions and concerns of female student-athletes, coaches, and administrators regarding careers for females in intercollegiate athletics. The major goal of this study was to outline the factors that continue to influence women’s careers, motivate women to seek careers in intercollegiate athletics, and to identify potential obstacles institutions may face in recruiting and retaining women in coaching and administrative positions.

For this replication, three separate instruments were developed; one for each group surveyed. These questionnaires were designed to collect information on the factors that motivate women to pursue careers in intercollegiate athletics as well as the factors that impede these careers from the perspective of female student-athletes, coaches and administrators. Not all items on the instruments were asked of each group.

In total, survey responses were received from 8,900 student-athletes, 1,475 coaches, 1,107 and administrators. Division III specific responses included 3,674 student-athletes, 413 coaches, 230 and administrators.

Provided here are selected findings from the Division III respondents.

2007-08 Division III Student-Athlete Findings

1. The vast majority of female student-athletes (93%) were satisfied with their athletics participation in college.
2. Over ninety three percent of Division III female student-athletes reported career interests outside of intercollegiate athletics. The desire for a higher salary, the required time requirements, and the preference of a nine-to-five position were factors cited by current female athletes for choosing not to pursue athletics careers.
3. Female student-athletes who report their career will likely involve athletics or exercise science were more likely to report their roster spot as first team than were female student-athlete respondents who report their career will unlikely involve athletics or exercise science.
4. Respondents were very positive about the capability of male coaches to guide both male and female student-athletes as well as the capability of female coaches to be models and to provide guidance for female student-athletes.
5. Having no interest beyond playing, burn out and salaries were identified as the top three reasons why female student-athletes believe women do not enter careers in intercollegiate athletics.
6. Time requirements, salary and unfavorable gender discrimination were identified as the top three reasons why female student-athletes believe women leave careers in intercollegiate athletics.
2007-08 Division III Coaches and Administrator Findings

1. The majority of female coaches (84%) and administrators (77%) indicated they would still be an intercollegiate coach or administrator if they were to choose their career path over again.

2. Coaches and administrators in Division III indicated that the university’s support of women’s athletics programs was the most important factor in their decision to accept a position in athletics.

3. For both coaches and administrators, involvement as a female student-athlete was associated with interests in athletics careers.

4. While the majority of female coaches (66%) and administrators (67%) indicated high levels of satisfaction with their current overall employment, coaches indicated dissatisfaction with the equality of the sexes within athletics departments, salary, and level of involvement in departmental decision making. Administrators indicated dissatisfaction level of stress involved with the job, with the gender equality within athletics departments and the equality of race/ethnicity in athletics departments.

5. Female coaches and administrators conveyed there are qualified women who do not apply for positions in athletics.

6. Family commitments and time requirements were the most cited reasons that female administrators and coaches feel women do not enter and leave careers in intercollegiate athletics.

Provided here are the suggestions for improvement based on study results.

1. Market coaching, athletics administration and officiating to young women as viable professions.

2. Make practical experience available in the fields of coaching, athletics administration and officiating.

3. Increase in-service training opportunities for women in the fields of coaching and officiating.

4. Create additional networking and communication opportunities to interact with coaches, administrators and officials on a national intercollegiate basis.

5. Develop mentoring programs to increase the accessibility to role models within college athletics.

6. Encourage institutional exploration of hiring practices and procedures.

Collins became the first, and only, Executive Director of the North Coast Athletic Conference when the league began its first playing season in 1984. For 25 years, he led one of the most successful conferences in all three divisions of the NCAA.

He was a respected national leader and has served as President of the NCAA Division III Commissioners Association, a group he helped to organize in 1989. From 1992-1996, he served as a member of the NCAA Council, the national association’s equivalent of a board of directors. In the same period, he chaired the NCAA Dist. IV Postgraduate Scholarship Committee, served on the Division Special Restructuring Taskforce and in 1999, completed a six-year term on the NCAA Interpretations Committee. He was awarded the prestigious Meritorious Service Award from the Div. III Commissioners’ Association in 2006. He was a founder of the Intercollegiate Officiating Association, a cooperative amongst 27 NCAA/NAIA colleges that provides regional officiating services. Collins served 17 years as that group’s chief administrator. He served on Presidential Advisory/Visiting Committees at both Carnegie Mellon University and Bates College. He also served on the Games Committee of five Kickoff & Pigskin Classics, college football’s opening games, between 1984 and 2002. Over the years, Collins guided two membership expansions of the Conference—one in 1988, adding Earlham and Wittenberg, and the most recent, the addition of Hiram and Wabash Colleges in 1998.

Prior to coming to the NCAC, Collins served five years as communications director for the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics. He also was sports information director/athletic-alumni director at Case Western Reserve University and news director/sports information director at Otterbein College. For an eight-year period, he operated his own firm, Collins Communications, which provided public relations and photographic services to regional and national clients such as the National Football League.

He was a graduate of The Ohio State University with an undergraduate degree in journalism and served four years in the U.S. Coast Guard. He is survived by his wife Jeanne, and three grown children, Jennifer, Kate and Michael, as well as his mother, sister, brother and their families.
Dr. Myles N. Brand
NCAA President
September 16, 2009

Dr. Myles N. Brand, visionary leader, educator and reformer, who was serving as President of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has died after a heroic battle with pancreatic cancer. He was 67.

Brand took the helm of the NCAA in January, 2003. In his first state of the association address that year, Brand said his presidency would be structured on two platforms: academic reform and advocacy of intercollegiate athletics – promises Brand made good on in his six year tenure.

Termed by many the “education president,” Brand presided over passage of the most comprehensive academic reform package for intercollegiate athletics in recent history – a package that refocused the attention of student-athletes, coaches and administrators on the education of student-athletes. Brand also changed the national dialog on college sports to emphasize the educational value of athletics participation and the integration of intercollegiate athletics with the academic mission of higher education. His tenure helped re-establish the indispensable role of university presidents in the governance of college sports. He was a true friend to Division III athletics.

Born May 17, 1942, in Brooklyn, New York, Brand was educated at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, where he was a basketball and lacrosse student-athlete, and the University of Rochester. He started his career in academia as a philosophy professor at the University of Pittsburgh in 1967. He then went on to the University of Illinois at Chicago where he began a rapid ascension in academic leadership positions that lead him to the University of Arizona, The Ohio State University, and the University of Oregon where he served as president for five years from 1989-1994. In 1994, Indiana University named Dr. Brand their sixteenth president, a post he held until he took over the presidency of the NCAA in 2003.

Brand is survived by his wife of 31 years, Dr. Peg Zeglin Brand, his son, Joshua (Cheryl Keenan), and two grandchildren – Cassidy and Megan – of Lexington, MA, and a sister Cheryl Rappaport (Ken) of Boca Raton, FL.
