

Clarifications and Interpretations

By Newt Engle, Secretary-Rules Interpreter, Rifle Rules Committee

August 18, 2017

Question: For the smallbore rifle, may stock extensions be added to the bottom of the fore-end of the stock for kneeling and/or prone positions?

Discussion/Answer: Yes, with the below limitations.

For smallbore rifles, the palm block or stock extension must not exceed 200 mm below the bore line.

7.4.5.2 Palm Rests

A palm rest is any removeable attachment or extension below the fore-end that aids the support of the rifle by the forward hand. Such extensions must not extend more than 200 mm below the centerline of the barrel.

Permitted for NCAA smallbore competitions per rule 7.4.5.2